ON THE FARM.

Fruit trees, when crowded, lack the necessary feeding space for their roots, resulting in small crops of undersized, inferior and badly colored fruit.

Investigation into the nutritive values of the red, white, yellow and violet varieties of potatoes shows that the violet-fleshed potatoes stand highest.

Very often roots that may just be forming are killed in a few days, should the soil become saturated with water. Not only is there a loss of these feeding roots, but the vitality of the entire plant becomes weakened.

Dicks are great farm scavengers, eating much that cannot be utilized. Vegetable trimmings, potato peels, bread scraps and meat, all if mixed with a little bran, make a dish highly relished.

Oregon's State Board of Horticulture is no mere ornamental appendage. It has just informed fruit-growers that unless they keep their orchards clean from pests the state will do it at their expense.

As to the best time for pruning the orchard, authorities differ, but where the work is properly attended to every year so that only small limbs are to be removed, it makes little difference at what season it is done.

The White Plume celery is a popular early celery in the New York market and may be recognized by its long stalk, feathered head and white skin. The Yellow Plume is also a good long stalk variety of another color. There is an attempt to introduce the Plum Plume, the name of which justly describes the color.

In the first place, poultry should be well fed and well watered, and then kept for eighteen to twenty-four hours without food before killing. Stock dresses out brighter when well watered and adds to the appearance. Fall crops like the onions are to be harvested as soon as possible. They are to be stored in a cool, dry place, and when this does occur correspondingly lower prices must be accepted than obtainable for choice stock. Never kill poultry by wringing neck.

The variety of food is also of great importance. Do not try to get your pullets to lay too soon unless you want to decrease their size. The young pullets should be fed foods that will develop frame and egg-producing organs as well.

Soaked oats and wheat I find are splendid for young growing stock. Do not feed too much corn or other fattening foods, as they are too heating.

As a general rule it is not best to spread refuse of one crop on land designated for the same crop whether in the garden or field. Onion refuse should never be spread on land that is calculated for onions on account of the danger of propagating the smut. Cabbage refuse should not be spread on cabbage land on account of the danger of propagating club root and black rot. Burn it and destroy its power to propagate disease in your gardens and on your farms, or else put it on a field where some other crop is to be grown.—Agricultural Expert.

Of course there is always so much to do on a farm that it never gets done—any one who has farmed for as short a time as one year knows this—but the time required to do a little cleaning up is really shorter than a busy man believes. It is getting started at the work that comes hardest. The excuse of the man who does not have a clean looking farm is usually that he does not care about selling, and it is worth as much to him that way as any. He does not figure anything for satisfaction.—Farmers' Mail and Breeze.

There is nothing so well as mangel or sugar beets. For every ten pounds of mangels, take off one pound of grain. It is only a question of how cheap you can grow them, for nothing is better. Then wait the longest in winter and a reserve force in summer. For the largest milk production, we must feed on grain. Grow all possible on the farm, then learn how to feed them, or provide the right ration for the largest milk production.

GATHERED UP.

The dearest girl on earth is the one that eats the most ice cream.

He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is really our helper.

Take a stroll about town and view the exquisite beauty of the crimson roses now in bloom.

The matter of making new friends and acquaintances has two sides; and it is a subject not to be dismissed lightly.

If odor, not speed, were the standard unit, many a small car would be rated as at least 100 HP.

Foreigner—What was the total loss of life caused by your Revolutionary War? Native American—No body knows. We keep adding to it every fourth of July—Chicago Tribune.

Match the sunshine with your smiles. Help the birds in filling the earth with music. Feed yourself a part of this busy, happy, sawing world and show it your looks and acts. London Punch.

Doctor—Now, there is a very simple remedy for this—or this—or recurring thirst. Whenever you feel you want a whiskey and soda, just eat an apple—eat an apple. Patient—But—fancy eating fifty or sixty apples a day!

You say you once had a home?

"Dat's what I had," answered Plodding Peter.

Why didn't you do something to make your folks comfortable and happy?

"I did. I left."—Washington Star.

A distinguished man of today says: "I never could have reached my present position had I not known that my mother expected me to reach it. From a child she made me feel that this was the position she expected me to fill; and her faith spurred me on and gave me the power to attain it."

Everything ready for raiding that gambling joint?

"Yes, sir."

"Warned the proprietor, I suppose?"

"No."

"Great Scott!" exclaimed the lieutenant, "and you call yourself a policeman! Want to get the department into trouble?" Philadelphia Public Ledger.

OURSELVES

When God gave us the earth to possess, He also gave us ourselves, and trusted us to learn that the only way to really possess our own souls is to prefer others before ourselves; the only way to be first is to be a servant of all; the only way to conquer is to love. This is the whole message of Christianity. We are no longer told we must go to heaven in order to gain heaven after death. We have learned that we must live purely and unselfishly in order to make a heaven here and now for our brothers, and in learning that we have learned it all.

AT THE ALTAR.

"Will you have this woman to be your lawful wedded wife?"

"That's what I loved I would."

"Will you love, honor and obey her?"

"Ain't you got that switched around, person?" said the bridegroom.

"John," said the bride-elect, "don't you reckon the person knows his business?"

"Answer the question?"

"Yes, sir," said the bridegroom, meekly.

"I reckon I'll have to." Atlanta Constitution.

THEN AND NOW.

Rev. Dr. George L. Cady of the Pilgrim Congregational church, in making the address of the evening, attacked many of the salient features of the educational system of today in his talk on "Citizenship in the Last Century."

He said in part:

"This last century may be called the century that has had a passion for education. I have wondered, in spite of all this activity, what the great college-bound men of the old days at Harvard, Yale, or Dartmouth think of the great universities of today. They would think that with all the equipment we ought to raise giants. I fear to state what they would find. Are we paying back as well for the vast investment as our fathers did for their meager fitting?"

It is becoming generally understood that not only will goods for fall or winter ordered a little later, cost more, but that next spring's goods will be higher.

It being the time of year when buyers at the principal shoe stores, a better state of busness is expected. Salesmen have not been able to secure much business recently, with wholesalers, so it is anticipated that the buyers expect to come to headquaters and select there.

The young man accepted the invitation, and at the end of the luncheon next day, when the coffee and cigarettes were brought in, he drew a bulky manuscript from his pocket and begged leave to read a comedy to M. Duvall, for he was a playwright too.

"Daval consented and listened attentively to the reading. At the end the young man said:

"My dear boy," said Duvall, "I am happy to be able to accommodate you."

"And he handed a hollow key to the young man, who at once set up a fierce and continuous hissing. Just then a critic stepped in."

"There he is said to the playwright,

"My dear boy," said Duvall, "I am happy to be able to accommodate you."

"And he handed a hollow key to the young man, who at once set up a fierce and continuous hissing. Just then a critic stepped in."

FRIDAY, JULY 9, 1909.

We are in receipt this morning of another of those interesting Washington articles by Mrs. R. C. DeWolfe, (Grace Kelly) which may be looked for next week.

The world seems to be waking up to the need of a uniform in our school system and teaching things which will be of use. According to an address delivered, not in Massachusetts but in Colorado, a boy ought to know how to read, write and cipher. "While it is the privilege of every American boy to try to become President of the United States," said Mr. DeWolfe, "it does not follow that it becomes the business of the public school system to fit him for that position. Some of these boys are going to be laborers, mechanics, artisans, something besides President, and right now they are neglected. WEYMOUTH WATER WORKS.

The contracts for the introduction of water from Weymouth Great Pond were made by the Board of Water Commissioners last Tuesday, the contract for east pipe being awarded to Mr. A. B. McLeod, of Burlington, N. J., and that for laying the pipe, building stand pipes, pumping stations, etc., to Mr. W. C. McCullough, of Springfield, Mass. The contract provides that the work shall be commenced immediately, portions of the large pipe to be delivered by the 15th of September and the balance of delivery to commence at the opening of navigation in the spring of 1887, and all the pipe to be delivered by June 1 following.

The grand total of the contracts foots up to a little over $250,000, which is a large reduction from the original estimate and shows a degree of financial and business tact on the part of the Water Board that proves the wisdom of the town in choosing so efficient representatives of its interests in the important matter of securing a water supply for the inhabitants of Weymouth.

Kelly — Bracken.

Mr. Joseph M. Kelly, a prominent young man of this town, a clerk in the U. S. Railway Mail service running between Boston and New York, and Miss Elizabeth Q. A reception followed the ceremony, at the home of the bride's mother, corner Union and Howard streets, and was largely attended, mostly from this town being present Mr. and Mrs. Kelley received a large number of handsome gifts.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Kelley left for their wedding trip and on their return will be at home with their friends at 25 Woodland Avenue, Randolph.

Mayflower Chapter No. 65, O. E. S.

By invitation of Mrs. Walter H. Jay the members of Mayflower Chapter No. 65 of Weymouth were royally entertained on Wednesday afternoon and evening at her attractive home, No. 21 Fenwood Street. It was a patriotic day and the decorations were of the National colors and very beautiful. Each guest was presented with a small silk flag as they entered the vestibule.

A very pleasant entertainment was rendered consisting of vocal and instrumental music, patriotic readings and games. Mrs. Jay gave an address of welcome and the program opened with a salute to the flag by all present. Miss Sylvia C. G. Fitzwillie, a very accomplished musician of twelve years rendered several piano solos. Mrs. Blake of Grand Opera fame favored the company with vocal solos. A fine and tempting menu was served at 5:30 o'clock consisting of fifteen items.

MISS ONE POINT.

The Lady Told Him What More He Could Have Said.

"I am going to tell you the truth about yourself," he said.

"The Afrikan mosquitoes infestate you. They bite so much poison into you that you are dozied, your eyes roll and you stagger and speak thickly. In a word, you're drunk," said a missionary.

"In the Nyassa country I'd always start getting ready for bed and the mosquitoes an hour before sunset. I'd have to sit up and wait until it was dark time. I'd climb down in the bushes with antiseptics and boxes. I'd light inside this green wood fire, filling it with a bitter smoke that all insects are supposed to hate.

"Finally I'd get the black mosquito, and I'd sing miserably in that hot, smoky atmosphere for the dawn. The west wind would blow in and 200-300 mosquitoes would just suddenly appear as soon as darkness fell. They were like a whirlwind in there. It couldn't have been worse. Their noise and their snapping made me feverish—made me really delirious at times."

"At last, in exhaustion, I'd get a few hours of troubled sleep, awakening for breakfast drunk from the poison injected in hundreds of tiny needles into my skin."

"Now it isn't the elephants or the giraffes that trouble the African hunter, but the skeletons!"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

VALUABLE SERVICE RECOGNIZED.

MAJOR FRANCIS A. BICKNELL.

There are but few if any departments of the government of the United States which are more trying and often perplexing than the pension department. It is often criticized as being "too easy" and again too arbitrary. Undoubtedly there are many regarding pensions which are at least questionable, and on the other hand there are thousands of men, or their dependents, whom no amount of pension can remunerate for their loss or suffering, and Major F. A. Bicknell of North Weymouth, as deputy consul-general in the department of State Aid and Pensions at the State House, has for many years been in the trying position of investigating and adjusting questions which come along these lines, and his valuable services have just been recognized by his appointment to the position.

ON THE FARM.

If we want to make our horse love us give him an apple instead of a blow.

Potatoes should be cultivated once a week from the time the rows can be followed until the cultivator wheels injure the plants.

The statement has often been made that an acre of good land will support a cow the year round.

The dairyman made the remark that he could keep two cows on an acre, but practically the man who keeps one cow on two acres is doing very good business.

If he gets fair prices for the product, it is a fact that the demand for milk, butter and cheese is increasing faster than cows, and the prices are continually advancing.

There is no better business than dairying.

Agricultural

Epitomist.

Don't sell a good cow just because the other fellow offers a big price for her.

She is worth just as much to you as she can possibly be to him.

Hens feel the warm weather as much as others folks.

Give them a shady place to sit down once in a while and rest.

They will do all the better for it.

We are informed by those who seem to possess the knowledge that there is a promise of a big blueberry crop in our fields and swamps.

If whole oats are scattered very thinly it will not be a success.

Three bushels to the acre should be used

if the sere should be used.

Oatmeal grass is more vigorous than timothy, with a stronger root system; but if a permanent meadow is expected it must be top-dressed freely.

If corn is very weedy or if there comes a heavy rain it pays to cultivate after it is tilled.

I have cultivated the ground grain and then sown oats.

It takes two rows less 10 rods long to make a head than on the land which had not received the extra cultivation.

I use a live-hoof adjustable cultivator and plow as shallow as I can.

I believe in level cultivation.

Most people in this country plant corn one acre to twenty inches per inch, with the result that it is very difficult to harvest.

Gentleness and firmness are about the only qualifications to make a good driver.

Keep a stout rein, a good temper and study your animals. The rest is easy.—Exchange.

The English sparrow, imported from another country, was not a very beneficial bird in its natural home, and on being transferred to new environments has become an injurious species here. It is not desirable to import foreign species to this country as it has proved to be a fail-ture wherever attempted. Protect our own birds, which every farmer can do on his own premises if he will.—Philadelphia Record.

Horses and cows are in the stable at night for rest. When the weather is warm the atmosphere in close confinement becomes very warm and oppressive, so much so that the animals become very uncomfortable, and hence, fail to get proper rest. The horse that does not get proper rest is not in a good condition for heavy work the following day and the cow that does not sleep in a cool, restful place in hot weather will not give a full flow of milk. The temperature of the working or producing animal must be kept normal to give the best results.

If there are no windows in your stables, cut out a number now and let light and fresh air come for the health and comfort of the animals. There is nothing like plenty of good, fresh air in living and sleeping rooms, whether the rooms be for the occupation of man or other animals. This holds good for both winter and summer,

FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1909.

The officers of Quincy have posted notices among operators of automobiles in "Square Deal" provided they comply with the recent acts of the legislature and the Quincy Patriot says "the new law is now in effect. If we know anything about speed and definition of words there is a wide margin of difference between 'high speed' and 'no force' or there is a difference in speed of automobile on the Weymouth side of the bridge from that on the Quincy side as the average speed on Bridge street is more than 27 miles per hour and very rarely within the "Square Deal" proposition of Quincy. Weymouth ought to seek for a "Square Deal," not only on Bridge street but on all others.

When I found myself cornered by a Red Man of the Forest he usually turned the Red Man's pet dog with him, and let us know that when a constable of Weymouth sends the owners or keepers of unlicensed dogs across the line he will be paid his dog in the same boat with the owner or keeper. Again it would not be kind to prosecute said dog after it was killed. Note the following:

South Weymouth, July 10th, 1909.

Mrs. H. C. DeWolff
Having received the warrant to kill and prosecute all owners and keepers of unlicensed dogs. You must attend to the license at once.

Constable of Weymouth.

When you send an item of news to a paper, be sure it is correctly written. After you write it, read it over once or twice to see if nothing has been omitted, or if you can add something that will improve it and make it more readable. The other day we received a notice of an entertainment to be given in an East Dorchester church. The item was a good one and would have been used, but the writer left out one very essential fact—she failed to give the date when the entertainment was to be given. If she could have been reached by telephone, we should have called her and learned the date, but as she had no telephone, the item had to go into this receptacle of all incomplete items—the waste basket. Write your items with care and sign your name, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith—DeWolff Transcript.

It is too hot to say much about the fall political campaign and yet there is a little something doing. The Republican State Committee has arranged the delegate representation for the several conventions and they will be quite large as based on the vote of Gov. Draper in 1908 and Weymouth gains one in each convention.

As far as their is no suggestion of a change or contest in the State, only party contests may develop.

In the Councillor district of which we are apart, Connelman Bemis is in the field for a re-election but will have as competitors Col J. S. Cushing of Norwood, Herbert W. Burr of Dorchester and possibly others.

In the 1st Norfolk Senatorial District the present incident, Eugene C. Huhtman of Quincy, by his record of this year and the custom of the past, is entitled to succeed himself which he will probably do.

Weymouth is a representative district by itself and while some people are beginning to talk, the guessing as to who, or how many candidates, will be in the field is wide open and the surprises will be about as usual. No flocks can tell how Weymouth will vote for representative.

The campaign for the fall however will not be void of interest and that interest will center on county officers. Mr. Richardson of Medway, as County Commissioner is serving his first term but Brookline is after the place with Dr. Bowker as a candidate. Hyde Park is no small factor in Norfolk County and there are people there who feel that they should be represented on the Board. Weymouth is among the large towns and a large part of its population have grown up since a man from Weymouth was a county commissioner.

There will also be a contest for the position of county treasurer. At the death of Treasurer Smith, Mr. Cummings of Quincy became his successor until the next regular nomination when he was defeated by the present incumbent Mr. Humphrey of Dedham and it is now in the air that both parties are lining up their friends for another trial.

Accident Proved Fatal.

Edward J. Glancy of Brockton, an employee of the Keith Co., met with an accident on Saturday which resulted in his death. Mr. Glancy was a promising lad of 17 years and a member of S.P.S.A.L. baseball team which was scheduled to play at North Easton, Saturday afternoon.

Glancy left the factory to take the train for Brockton via Braintree. On leaving the factory he had but a small margin of time to catch his train and when he hurried at the Wharf Street crossing the train was already pulling out from the station, he rushed for it and when it met him was going at quite a speed. In his efforts to get on board he either lost his hold or slipped, falling beneath the train which passed over his right leg just below the knee. The legs were fearfully crushed and he also received other injuries. He was taken to the hospital on East street and was at first thought advisable to amputate the leg but the patient was so weak from the loss of blood that this was abandoned and after lingering until Sunday afternoon he died and on Monday the remains were taken to Brockton.

The young man is spoken of as a specially promising boy, a great favorite with his companions and the light and cheer of a home where he leaves a father, mother and three sisters.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this occasion to sincerely thank the many kind neighbors and friends who ministered to us in our great affliction and to express our gratitude for the beautiful services rendered together with the sympathetic sympathy shown by loving hearts. To each and all who were so kind we extend our deepest gratitude.

Here and There in Washington.

Written for Gazette and Transcript by Mrs. B. C. DeWolff.

Washington, July 7. And so it has actually happened! The glorious Fourth has become a fact in reality and not a mere phrase. Here in the capital city this last 4th of July we experienced a "safe and sane" observance of the day. The weather was delightful. A cool wave turned off the torrid heat of the previous week and made life worth living once more. But refreshing breezes and blue skies were nothing compared with the calm of silence which pervaded the city from the centre to the very edge. Not one petted darling had "had a good time" on the 4th, "happens but once a year," exploding bombs and firecrackers accompanied by yell and howl, which would put to shame the efforts of savages on the war path. Not one child blew off his hands or head or any one else's hands or head, nor even an eye was lost in the glorious cause, for the city commissioners took the celebration into their own keeping and invited all to come and see how they did it. If every city in our land could have seen a representative to this entertainment, he would indeed have been hard to please if he had not henceforth become an ardent advocate of the "safe and sane" method. The program was a varied one; from early morning until the final piece of fireworks had burned "Good Night" to twenty thousand more admiring eyes there was something doing.

The morning and afternoon displays of daylight fireworks attracted throngs of gawking as well as children. But what impressed one most of all was the crowd itself. Everyone looked happy and spick span. There was no distracting nerve-racking noise, no danger from wreckage of half-burned firecrackers. As the procession of flower-covered autos passed the Capitol, one's attention was divided between the beauty of the floral parade and the remarkable sight of the crowd which covered the steps, curb-stones, fountain rails and every available standing-place for a sight-seer. Imagine the three vast flights of steps, leading to the Senate, the House and the main part of the Capitol, as well as all the nearby places, covered with women and children in summer costumes, white pruning, with pink, blue, green and many sprinkled in, the more sombre garments of the men living out those colors more sharply by contrast, with perfect order and not a policeman in sight, and you will have a clear idea of how the whole city looked and behaved on this last really glorious Fourth. Too much cannot be said in praise of this experiment, for it proved conclusively that children more thoroughly enjoy the national holiday when the peace and safety of the public are left in experienced hands.

If the "safe and sane" Fourth were to become fashionable there would be no need for a hasty evades to the woods or out to sea the night before that dreaded day, with uncertainty whether one's home may not be in ashes on his return, a sacrifice to lawlessness called "liberty"—of the old fashioned Fourth. The records of the hospitals and fire departments here the day after were enough to make any town and cities in the country sit up and take notice. There was not one accident to persons not one dollar's worth of property lost through this youth of July celebration.

GATHERED UP.

There are degrees of hard luck, but the limit is to be run over by an auto while dodging sand-halves from an airship.

The city of Quincy is to establish a cenvex at 10 o'clock. Quincy has had a cenvex law for many years and the bell sounds nightly at 8:55. It has been a good thing—which by itself to set your watch, either that, one might as well with the poet: "Curfew shall not ring to-night"—Quincy Patriot.

The same day that Rev. Mr. String of St. Louis denied that the devil needs close watching in this world, the Supreme Court of Iowa decided that a man has a right to use profane language over a telephone wire. There are a number of summer resorts in Iowa, and we have high ecclesiastical authority for saying that the devil is always to be found working around summer resorts in summer—Grade Democrat.

RETOUR COURTOIS.

There was a quick exchange of wit one day between Congressman Sharp of Ohio and Congressman James of Kentucky. Mr. Sharp was defusing his political creed. He said:

"I want protection for every industry until it is able to stand on its own feet." Like a flash his colleague retorted:

"I'll go that far; I'll favor protecting industries until they stand on their own feet, but I don't feel like continuing that protection until they stand upon everybody else's feet."

THE DESCRIBER.

Do you desire to have it understood that the judge, addressing the lady who wanted the divorce, "that your husband deserves it?"

Address the court as concisely as you can how he deserved it."

Two months after we had completed our trouting trip he seemed to me because I was extravagant in the matter of getting clothes, and I went home to pay my debts.

"Very Proper." "Well, I waited and waited and waited for him to come and beg me to return to him, and he never did."

FOR THE DAUGHTER THAT WASN'T MARRIED.

There will be a very unique social affair in Atherton early in July. A certain girl has never married, and as all her sisters married and enjoyed pretty clothes and wedding presents as if she were the only one, may still appear as the most beautiful of the bunch and measles among the children. They laughed and applauded, scampered after the descending elephants and Uncle Sam from the daylight fireworks, and old and still most appealing when the bursting bands scattered golden stars or silver showers in the evening.

After a temporary absence on the Potomac River drives, the Marine Band has returned to its customary Wednesday afternoon concerts in front of the Capitol to the great delight of many music lovers. The concert begins rather late at this season, 5 p.m. after the sun begins to descend toward the west, throwing long shadows on the east front. And here come the three great flights of steps up with pleasurable groups of summer-gowned folk. They laughed and applauded, scampered after the descending elephants and Uncle Sam from the daylight fireworks, and old and still most appealing when the bursting bands scattered golden stars or silver showers in the evening.

DO UNTO.

If there's something good you know of another, friend or foe,

Something meriting your praise,

Something kindly, tender, true,

That will hope and faith renew,

And lead others like to it.

Always tell it!

If there's something ill you know of another, friend or foe,

Something that would be made,

And the penalty has paid,

Something better out of sight,

That to draw into the light

Would not cause of Right,

Never tell it!

Withal never say a low

Another friend or foe,

Withal tell it to the world,

Not result in any good,

Know on von there is no call

To let censure on him fall,

Or another!

DO unto.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

The column under this title will be given to the people for a free discussion of any and all subjects, the management of the paper distinctly reserving the responsibility for the opinions expressed.

RUMINATION.

While I am an optimist and see a great many good things in the world around me and have great hopes for the future of our race the following is the result of my ruminations during a trip across the continent.

We are living in a coarse vein, immoral and egotistic age and the daily parade of these attributes have a tendency to sap most of the cream and joy of existence.

In cars, on the street and in gatherings of all sorts we are jostled, jarred and disgusted by the extreme coarseness of humanity; likewise wherever the eye reaches, vanity stalks predominant and almost blindfoldness as a relief from this curse of our advanced age. Modesty seems to be indeed a myth; the parade of fifth and immorality added and shaded by the scurrilous writings of the press have so丈丈地 remained almost at a stand still or perhaps a tiny step forward, but should receive the encouragement of all good citizens as they certainly are setting an example for other parts of the town to follow.

All through life it is, I think, that confronts us in most conversation. "I am going to do so and so," or "I can, did or will do so" until disgust and annoyance prevail us until one feels like sleeping and forgetting and longing for some one to create a new era of common sense and level-headedness without being pushful or supercilious.

The calamity which followed from us with the world so far removed from us, was a severe one and hard to realize but in it we have been led to realize the tender and sympathetic side of human nature. From every side there have been expressions of tenderness and tender words of sympathy and help.

So many have been these sympathizers and helpers that we hardly know them, but to one and all we extend our most sincere and heartfelt thanks for the kind deeds and tender words.

DAVID O'NEILL and family.

Old Colony Driving Club.

There were not as many horses nor as many classes at the Saturday matinee of the Old Colony Gentlemen's Driving club as there were on Monday, and yet there were enough to make it interesting and enjoyable to those in attendance.

There were nine classes with twenty horses entered and the evenness of most of the matches, made quite close work and the several races were in doubt until the winner had passed under the wire.

In class E, Louise D. was driven against her previous record of 1:24, but it took two heats to do it and she finished the second heat in 1:11.

There was however the most interest in class E, as the two best horses of the circuit were left fast and time was looked for it, and came. Nina B. covering the half-mile in 1:07, which was the best time made this season.

The classes and scores were as follows:

Class E. Pacing.

Class B. Pacing.

ON THE FARM.

Bathe the horses' shoulders once a day with cold water; keep their collars and feet clean.

It is better to keep the cattle in small pastures, changing them frequently from one field to the other, than to allow them to roam over a large pasture continuously.

One hint in regard to the mowing of lawns at the present time will be useful to the inexperienced amateur, and this is to avoid cutting the grass quite as low down as to the months of May and June.

What the horticulturist is demanding is a general lowering of this injurious insect life. In no better way can this be done than by encouraging the increase of birds by providing suitable resting places and by protecting them in every way.

will properly stand. The cow is simply a machine, the stall is simply a machine, and the cabbage-hill is a machine into which we can put a certain amount of material and turn out from it so many dollars. If you feed this vegetable matter, with high-grade nitrogenous manure you can make it pay.

Two stalks in a potato hill will give more merchantable potatoes than a greater number. Often the two stalks can be got from a single strong eye, especially if planted rather deeply. But it is safer to plant more eyes and then cut off the excess stalks, selecting, of course, those least vigorous. Too many stalks in a hill of potatoes are as unprofitable as too many in a stall of corn.

Late batatas are having a good time, the warm dry weather softening them well if the plants are kept right at the roots and well cultivated. The early plants are held well set with fruit and as this begins to swell to weight the plants may be fed and watered a little more liberally. Keep a sharp lookout for the sheoats and pinch them out regularly, as they take the strength away from the flower and fruit clusters.

There is no doubt that certain characters should be looked for in a good laying hen. She should be long set, and stand up a pair of shanks set fairly wide apart. The head should be nice and clean cut, with a full bright eye. In other words, hens should show feminine character, and not wrinkled features. None of the latter type should be discarded; in short, masculinity in the hen is a bad sign. A hen with a large capacity for food has a large crop, is usually a payable bird to fatten. The smaller the sack of food she takes to roost at night the fewer eggs will she produce. Daيرنeca know that a cow must have plenty of room for food in order to produce a large milk yield.

Look out for the striped beetles. They often attack and destroy melons and cucumbers as fast as the plants appear above the ground. An application of wood ashes at regular intervals, or gypsum, tainted with kerosene or turpentine or carbolic acid, will help to drive them away.

If you have only a few plants you can easily protect each hill by erecting a mosquito netting guard over it until the plants begin to run.

Here are a few essentials of summer dairying: Keeping clean from the milks, never allowing raw water to come in contact with the milk cans, boiling water and cans for twice as long as minutes; seeing that no manure can seep into the walls, screening barns and outhouses from the pigs; that the milkers' hands and the cows' udders are clean before and during the milking operations.

The care of all animals is affected by the food they eat. For instance, the ducks that live on fish have a fishy flavor; the flesh has a disagreeable taste when the fowls are fed on onions. When swine are fed on henebents the bacon from the pigs has the flavor of bacon, while hogs allowed to feed on stinking, filthy slops and on dead animals furnish food unfit for human beings. There is no excuse for not feeding the soundest, cleanest, freshest food, and fresh pure water. There is much in the feed.

FRIDAY, JULY 23, 1909.

The movement to stamp out the "White Plague" which claims so many victims is a good one, but just at present the automobile is far away and ahead of the White Plague as a life destroyer. We publish the new automobile law and yet we see but few automobiles which are driven within the rules laid down.

When Wednesday, July 28th, arrives in Weymouth it will be "Grocers' Day" and there will be nothing doing in the grocery line in Weymouth, as the day has been set apart for a general suspension of business and a trip to New Bedford, Buzzard's Bay and Oak Bluffs. Get your groceries early or still better, join the party. Everybody always has a good time with the Grocers.

"The rate of taxation in Weymouth for the present year has been fixed by the Assessors at $114 on $1,000, a large reduction from last year, the town having raised $4,000 less than last year, at the annual meeting.

The above item was twenty six years old last week and has no special bearing on the rate for 1909 only as showing the difference between then and now. The assessors are busy with their work and a short time will show us something like $20 as a tax rate for this year and there may be those who will ask why the difference and it is easily answered. For some time we had twenty five years ago the rate would not be any higher, but like all cities and towns we have been buying things and among them nearly of quite a half million dollars of water works, over 2,000,000 of school houses, over $120,000 of apparatus, established a police department, inaugurated a street lighting system and sundry other things which the people of twenty five years ago knew nothing of. Possibly some of these things might have been dispensed with, but as a whole they were needed and as a whole are a credit to the town and add to the tax rate as announced there ought to be no kicking. The town is as poor as town average and the town debt as per valuation and population is far below the average.

Bee Keeping in Massachusetts.

The bulletin on this subject just issued by the Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station should interest all those who live where bees might be kept. In this list are included not only those living in the country, but many of those in villages or even in the city, for it has been recently shown that bees even in urban centers may be a source of much pleasure and profit. The annual produce of honey in this state seldom amounts to more than 140,000 pounds. It is estimated that it might easily be ten times that quantity. There is no danger of over production. Should the product be increased as above indicated, the supply would still amount to less than one-half pound for each individual African apiary.

This bulletin is based upon a careful study, covering early history, existing conditions and possibilities. It calls attention to need improvement in methods, discusses the different races of bees, and tells which are generally regarded as best. It briefly describes the different types of hives, and tells which are the most satisfactory. It considers also the value of different wild and cultivated plants for honey and the sections of the state in which they are found. It gives important information as to the most successful methods both of summer and winter management, and briefly treats of the principal diseases and enemies of bees. The bulletin emphasizes the fact that the opportunities for beekeeping in Massachusetts are exceptionally good, and concludes with a full bibliography.

This bulletin will be sent to such bee keepers as are on our mailing list and to others desiring it who will apply to the Experiment Station, Amherst, Mass.

Wm. P. Brooks,
Director.

The New Automobile Law.

The enactment of the last legislation as regard to automobiles is receiving much attention by cities and towns.

Uniform automobile speed laws are now in effect all over Massachusetts, and every local ordinance relating to the driving of cars has ceased to exist.

The new state law sets the pace at which a motor vehicle may be operated at 20 miles an hour in the open country, 15 miles an hour in the suburbs of towns and cities, and 8 miles an hour at crossings and intersecting ways.

The law takes the matter of speed regulation out of the hands of the local governments and imposes it in the police power of the state; also, for the first time in Massachusetts, gives legislative sanction to the use of auto traps.

It is provided that all automobiles, except every two lights in front, one of which must be visible not less than 200 feet in the direction in which the vehicle is going.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this occasion to thank the many friends who aided us by their kind words and deeds in our great affliction, and to express our gratitude for the many moral tributes. To each and all we extend our most sincere regards.

Obituary, Mrs. Hannah H. Potter.

Mrs. Hannah Humphrey Potter, last week in her ninety-fourth year, entered through suffering into her rest and a larger life. Her body was brought back here to her old home, at her request. Mrs. Potter was born and lived fifty years in East Weymouth. The oldest child of Josiah and Betsy Bates, she was early the family reader, on winter evenings reading about Thaddeus of Warsaw and the Scottish Chiefs then new. Her school education was completed at "select" schools in South Weymouth and Weymouth and at Derry Academy, Dingleham. After teaching a two or three years in Weymouth, she was married to Mr. George Dyer, who had the one-storey house of the village and its post office. He was one of the school committee and one of the representatives at the "General Court". He died in his fourth year.

Later she was married to Rev. Edmund S. Potter, pastor of the East Weymouth Congregational church and one of the early advocates of the anti-slavery and the temperance reforms. He was also an active and helpful influence in the schools of the town and in broadening its life by calling in the best lecturers of the day—the great men in that field.

Mr. Potter died in 1855.

In the same year, the family left Weymouth and in the succeeding years, in Greenfield, Somerville, and Malden, a period of twenty-five years, Mrs. Potter also was everywhere honored for her own qualities and endeared herself to people of all ages, no person has a right to disturb his neighbors who are trying to sleep.

Father (at supper table)—Well Johnny, how did you get along at school today? Johnny—Papa, my physiology books says conversation at meals should be of a pleasant character. Let's talk about something else.—Chicago News.

Going to call on your new neighbors next door?

Not I. They insulted me the day they moved in.

As to how?

Asked me to occupy a sofa on the sidewalk. Said they feared I couldn't get a good view from behind the blinds.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Why do men chafe and worry themselves into premature old age, when they might make life so much sweeter and more purposeful? Raja Yoga says it is because ages ago man allowed the little seed of selfishness to be planted in their hearts. This seed took root and sprouted and for generations and generations it has steadily thrived.

He—Darling, we have been engaged for six months. Don't you think it is about time we were getting married?

She—Well, I'm willing to be married just as soon as you can provide me with a home.

That being the case, I suppose I am to consider the engagement broken.

Irate Parent—Sayon think my daughter loves you, sir, and you wish to marry her? Young Lover—That's what I called to say you about. And if you don't mind I thought I'd just ask if there is any insanity in your family.

Irate Parent—No, sir, and there's not going to be any.—London Express.

Those who become discouraged by mistakes are not very progressive. Instead of being stumbling blocks, mistakes are object lessons that arouse one to a sense of closer observation and point out facts. However, the man who makes the same mistake twice is not a very observing person.

A vigorous campaign against accidents has been started by the Chicago Railways Company. One feature will be the education of the public—men and women who ride on cars, who cross the streets with keeping a sharp lookout, and parents who carelessly permit their children to make a playground of the streets.—Mayor Busse of Chicago.

"Reform nothing," replied his honor. "A private company can discharge intelligent employees, but the city can't. To get rid of inefficient city employees I have to charge minutely specifying their shortcomings and then the civil service commission puts me on trial instead of the employees. I am a strong advocate of civil service—I think it is absolutely necessary in the administration of government—but there are some defects that I must be reminded before the executive will have it in his power to run the government so as to give the people their money's worth."

A LOOK THAT HURTS.

William G. Rockefeller is the president of the National Beekeper Club and an authority on bees.

Discussing the training of dogs at a recent club meeting, Mr. Rockefeller said:

"Yes; training is an art. The simplest appearing of canine performances is properly understood, a difficult thing. It looks easy, but it is hard, and thus"—Mr. Rockefeller smiled—"thus it is like the man at the photographs."

"This man, sitting for his portrait said, impatiently to the artist: 'Well, have I got now the pleasure expression you desire?' 'Yes, thank you,' said the photographer, 'that will do nicely.'

"Then hurry up, growled the man. 'It hurts my face'—Washington Star.

A FAIR DEAL.

"Look here," said the rural member of the legislature. "I'm willin' to make a dickey with yew. I'll vote for yer city grab bill if yew'll vote for my bill providing for a third deputy recorder in my county. What do yew say?"

"But what on earth do you want with a third deputy recorder?" asked the city statesman.

"Well, I'll tell yew," replied the member from the alfalfa reservation. "The regular recorder is a cousin up mine, and he's deaf and dumb; the first deputy is his brother-in-law up Boss Ryetop an' has bin confined to his bed for years; the second deputy is a relative of Boss Buckwheat, and he's crazy as a loon. So we've got hev sumbody to do the work. See?"

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

The column under this heading will be given to the people for a free discussion of any subject, the management of the paper distinctly disclaiming all responsibility for the opinions here expressed.

To the Editor—

I am much interested in our elm trees and in their preservation from the pest that destroys them.

Now this is what I notice, some trees sprayed and some not. Thus I spray my trees, my neighbors do not; those not sprayed breeding the pests that plague me next year.

Then small trees by the road are being eaten up, breeding millions of beetles for the coming season—all should be sprayed or spraying will be a continual performance year after year.

Now why not universally scare the folks by putting scare notices on the trees by street. I have one of my finest elms partly eaten up by the pest from hanging over my neighbor's little grass patch, the fearing the poison that never harmed him. On the other side is a neighbor's hen yard; he is afraid of poison that never poisoned him and so it is a nuisance.

Duty is the cement which binds the whole moral edifice together, and without all which power, goodness, intellect, truth, happiness, love itself, can have no permanence.

Of the nine autos making the trips only one got a puncture and with one or two other small troubles made up the list of events which so often happen to automobileists. This of course made the affair a perfect success in one direction and from remarks made by those who went, we learn that everyone was made happy by a delightful hour well spent. Only one fault has been heard of. Parties who lived a little distance from Thomas' Corner and who started to walk home after the trip were heard to remark that they couldn't seem to make their feet go, that is, they couldn't keep up with the pace they'd been travelling.

METROPOLITAN IMPROVEMENT

The Metropolitan Improvement Commission appointed by Gov. Guild has made its report which is one of the most elaborate and interesting reports ever made by any commission in the state.

It comes out in a volume of over 200 pages with maps, charts, diagrams and illustrations of the different features existing in the Metropolitan District of which Weymouth is a part.

The work has the appearance of having been published by men unbiased and unprejudiced in regard to localities, after a careful study of all the conditions of the several towns and cities.

The publication goes quite elaborately into the roads of Weymouth and while it speaks favorably of the roads in general it says that "Broad street, between Weymouth and East Weymouth, varies from 40 to 50 feet, which is too narrow for the travel which passes over it."

It speaks of Main street from Nash's corner to the Arlington line and says that Pleasant and Pond streets should be made to compare with it, and in speaking of the growth along Pleasant it suggests the need of a road from a point near the Pratt school house to Nash's corner.

The publication speaks in praise of Weymouth's water front, rivers and ponds as follows:

"Weymouth has a remarkable varied and picturesque water front on large parts of which has been reserved for public parks. Its large parks are also dedicated to public service except as reservoirs."

"To avoid interference with the use of the Fore River and Back River frontages for commercial purposes, the seaport taking should be carefully taken."

Speaking more particularly of our rivers it says in regard to Fore River: "The deep approaching channels would accommodate the largest class of modern steamships." It has a manufacturing plant of the greatest importance, both industrial and commercial, which within a few years has grown to be the largest shipbuilding company in the United States. "Nearly on Weymouth Back River, the national government has acquired a great tract of land and is establishing there the largest naval magazine in the country."

In conclusion the secretary, Sylvester Baxter says "The possibilities of Weymouth and its vicinity may be compared with those projected for the city of Newark, N. J." The former relates to Greater Boston much as Newark relates to Greater New York."

THE GREAT WAR GAME.

Possibly a Part to be Played in Weymouth.

The game will begin Saturday, August 14 and continue until the 28th and will be participated in by all the military force of the State.

The proposition to have the militia defend the city of Boston from attack from the sea or a force of thousands of other militiamen, including a brigade from the District of Columbia, another from New York and third from Connecticut is unique.

Over 100 ships will be required to transport the invading force, and over 10,000 men will be involved in the mimic struggle on both sides.

The disputed ground in the war game is roughly of quadrangular shape outlined by the cities of Boston, Taunton, New Bedford and Plymouth. Any place in this section of the State will be open to attack by the invading forces. At just what spot the large body of invaders will be landed will be a subject of concern for the defenders, who will aim to strike quickly before the landing party can secure a foothold.

Brig. Gen. Pew will have command of the Massachusetts brigade and will be ready for the attack at nine o'clock after the morning of August 14. Within him will be an army officer who is to credit the work of the defenders, while another army officer will score for the invaders, the commander of this force not having yet been picked.

The observers will not be picked until the last moment and according to Gen. Wood, the some officers of the army who planned the invasion will probably come from states not represented in the lighting. Gen. Wood will also watch the maneuvers as official umpire, while a large number of observers will be seated around the territory allotted for the war.

That there will be the liveliest kind of lighting is the opinion of General Wood, General Pew, and a number of regular army officers who have visited the field in examination of the opportunities offered for attack.

The Judge Liked Music.

A Kansas City Mo. dispatch of the 16th says:

When William Thomas, also known as "High-liver," a negro charged with assault and battery, was taken before Charles E. Thompson, judge of the South city court, he pleaded guilty.

"Don't you think a year would be about right?" the judge asked the negro.

"Judge, tell reasonable," the negro pleaded.

"What do you think you deserve?" the judge asked.

"I could stand six months," the negro replied.

"Well," said the judge, "I am going to give you six," and he hesitated, the negro drawing a long breath, "no, days."

"Judge, I thank you from the bottom of my heart. I'll play you my favorite piece." In a moment the strains of Home Sweet Home, played on a mouth organ, floated through the court-room, followed by Tinkles in the Straw, and School Days.

When the last piece was finished, James Lascombe, prosecuting attorney leaned over to Judge Thompson and said: "I believe 30 days is enough."

"Your sentence is 30 days," the judge said.

Holy Name Society Field Day.

The first annual field day of the Holy Name society connected with the Church of the Sacred Heart was held at Garfield Park, Saturday afternoon and evening and was attended by more than a thousand people. The program included a street parade, firemen's muster, two ball games and other sports, band concerts and dancing.

The parade started from Norfolk square at 2:30 o'clock and proceeded over the principal streets to Garfield Park. The procession was made up as follows:

Platoon of Weymouth Police under command of Chief of Police Thomas Fitzgerald.

Weymouth Brass Band, 25 pieces.

George W. White, leader.

Active Veteran Firemen's Association, 50 men. George Langford, president.

Active hand tub, M. William Coyle, foreman.

Oriental life and drum corps, 10 men. Freedom Stamps, leader, John Easton, drum major.

Union veterans' Firemen's Association, 100 men. Peter E. Fowler, president.

Union hand tub, Herbert Stackhouse, foreman.

Invited guests.

The procession arrived at the park at 2 o'clock and the first event was a picnic for a cash prize between the Union and Active.

Each tub had 20 minutes and played through 200 feet of hose. The Union won and made the following record in four trials:

160 feet 1-2 inches, 176 feet 4 inches.

178 feet 10 1/2 inches and 186 feet 4 inches.

The active plays were:

151 feet 2 1/2 inches, 151 feet 11 1/4 inches, 150 feet 4 1/2 inches and 154 feet 6 inches.

There was a lot of interest over the ball game between the Crescents of this place and the White Sox of East Braintree and the Crescents outlasted their opponents in all points of the game. Downton pitched for the Crescents and had the White Sox batters at his mercy, striking out 20 of the 57 men that faced him and struck out 11 of the 12 men who came to bat in the first four innings. This record has never been equalled at a game in this hall in town. Wall was on the receiving end and forced the White Sox to cling near their bases as only one attempted to steal. Two lightning double plays were pulled off in the infield. Burrell to Galliard, to Delaney and Delaney to Wall. Unripe, O'Dowd, Smith.

Methodist Episcopal Church Notes

The promoters of a new organ or rebuilt of the old one have succeeded thus far beyond their expectation.

The plans and specifications retain the present front and pipes but other than that the organ as proposed will be substantially a new one.

The proposed improvement will cost about $2,200 and at the first days effort it was nearly all subscribed and in several instances subscribers paid at once relieving the committee of further work in regard to it.

Coster—Cause I ain't a hoss, yo' old thickhead.—London Express.

A Simple Reason.

"Never propose to a girl by letter."

"Why not?"

"I did it once, and she stuck the letter in a book she was reading and left it to my other girl!"

divided, each female laying about 1,000 eggs.
